INTRODUCTION

Much of the collection consists of correspondence received by three generations of the Weston family: William Pritchard Weston and his wife Ann; their eldest surviving son, Edward Weston and his wife Kate; and their eldest surviving son, William Dubrelle Weston.

William Pritchard Weston (1804-1888) was born in Shoreditch, London, son of John Weston, a surgeon. William received a classical education, learning Latin, French, the classics, ancient history and said that his father wanted him to become a surgeon. However, after the death of his mother when he was 10 and the death of his father when he was 14, and as he was nearing maturity, William decided to look for opportunities elsewhere.

At the age of nineteen he emigrated to Australia on board the Adrian, which reached Hobart Town on 11 May 1824. The new Lieutenant-Governor of Van Diemen's Land, Colonel George Arthur, and his future father-in-law, Captain William Clark, late of the 6th Regiment of Foot, were fellow passengers. He had chosen the colony of Van Diemen's Land as his destination and arrived with letters of introduction to Charles Rowcroft and a letter from the Colonial Office supporting his application for a grant of land. After unsuccessfully applying for a grant in the Bothwell area, he selected and was granted 2000 acres (which he called Maitland) at Longford (then known as Norfolk Plains). He also purchased a 300 acre property nearby which he called Hythe. (1)

In June 1826, at the Clark property, Cluny Park, Bothwell, William married Ann Elphinstone, younger daughter of Captain Clark and his wife, Ann (nee Allam), who had arrived from England with her mother on the Phoenix in January 1825. (2) Descendants of the Clarks later claimed to be descended from a French Huguenot family called Dubrelle who settled in Ireland in the 17th century. (3)

A religious and well educated man, William was appointed catechist and lecturer for the Longford district in 1828, but due to a misunderstanding regarding his duties, he resigned not long afterwards. Three years later he replaced the original cottage on Hythe with an elegant Regency-style villa designed by architect Samuel Jackson. The property was named Hythe, after Ann's birthplace in Kent, England. (4) (Hythe was demolished in 1974, being replaced with a house of similar design on the same site the following year.) (5)

Eight children were born to William and Ann. The eldest child, William Sydney, born in 1827, died the following year. Madeline Dubrelle, born in 1829, married John Guthrie in 1850; Edward born in 1831, married Kate McCarthy Clerke in 1865; Ann, born in 1832, married Joseph Archer in 1852; Maurice, born in 1834, married (i) Marie Elizabeth Wilmore (died 1885) in 1864, (ii) Annie Cumming in 1888; Aimee, born in 1836, married James Grafton Carstairs in 1857; Fanny Jane, born in 1838, married Edward Wakefield Morrah in 1858; and Emma Blanche, born in 1840, married Arthur Morrah in 1864. (7)

William was a generous subscriber to the building fund for Christ Church, Longford, which was completed in 1844. (8)

The Weston family travelled to England in 1840, where Emma Blanche, the youngest child, was born. William returned to Longford in 1842; his family rejoined him in 1846. (9)

There are 15 known drawings by William, most depicting parts of the Longford district. (10)

A prominent member of the Anti-Transportation League, William, with the Rev. John West, represented the colony at Melbourne and Sydney Australasian Anti-Transportation League meetings in 1851. (11)

Elected to the House of Assembly as the member for Ringwood in 1856, he became a member of the Legislative Council for Longford from 1857 to 1861. William served two short terms as premier - from April to May 1857 and November 1860 to July 1861. (12)

Concern for William's health caused William and Ann to move to Geelong in 1865. (13) Their son Maurice had lived in the Geelong area since early 1853, when he was appointed a draftsman in the Victorian Survey Department. (14) Subsequently he became a grazier at Weering station near Geelong for some time before returning to Tasmania in the 1870s. (15) Madeline, their eldest daughter, and her husband, John Guthrie, also lived at Geelong. (16) Ann died at Geelong in 1868 (17) and William died on 21 February 1888 at "Leithen", St Kilda, Melbourne. (18)

Edward Weston (1831-1877), second son and eldest surviving son of William and Ann, was born at Hythe in 1831. Whilst in England with his family, he attended Hanwell Collegiate School c.1840. (19)

Edward farmed at Hythe and Maitland. (20) In 1851 whilst he was in Sydney on Anti-Transportation League business William sent detailed instructions to Edward concerning farming and financial matters. (21) In 1854 William Pritchard Weston and his wife Ann also purchased a property in the Longford district for Edward. They called it Maldon.

Edward married Kate McCarthy Clerke (born 20 January 1846), daughter of Alexander Clerke of Mountford, Longford, on 18 January 1865, at Christ Church, Longford. (23) They had seven children, two dying in infancy - Edward born in 1867, died the same year; William Dubrelle born in 1869; Theodora born in 1870; Arthur Dallas born in 1872, died in 1873; Eustace Moriarty born in 1873; Ruth born in 1875; and Edward Alexander born in 1877. (24)

Following in his father's footsteps, Edward was a member of the Legislative Council for Longford from 1872 until his untimely death in 1877. (25)

The year 1877 was a tragic one for Kate. On 14 February Edward was thrown from his carriage not far from Hythe and died that same day from injuries sustained in the accident. (26) Her father died on 20 March. (27) On a happier note, her son, Edward Alexander, named for his father and maternal grandfather, was born on 19 June 1877. (28)

Kate continued to live at Hythe until she moved to 'Altmor' in High Street, Launceston c. 1888 (29)

Hythe, Maitland and Maldon were offered for sale by the trustees of Edward's estate in January 1891. The auction notice in the Daily Telegraph provided a good description of the properties. However, the properties did not sell at that time.(30)

Kate died on 25 June 1899 in Sydney. (31)

William Dubrelle Weston (1869-1948), second son and eldest surviving son of Edward and Kate Weston, born at Hythe on 15 June 1869, was enrolled at Launceston Church Grammar School in 1880. Articled to the legal firm of Ritchie & Parker, he was admitted to the Bar in 1891, and subsequently graduated LL.B from the University of Tasmania. Two years later, William and E M Law, his friend from school days at Grammar, established the firm of Law & Weston at 66 Cameron Street. (32) Later the firm's name changed to Law & Weston & Archer. William retired in 1938, but joined his lawyer son Maurice the following year, the firm being called W D and Maurice Weston. (33)

He was a keen footballer and mountain climber. (34) In the 1890s he owned land in the Gould's Country area (35) and later had a 30 acre orchard at Exeter. (36)

One of the people responsible for the establishment of the Elphin Road Baptist Church in 1905, William was honorary legal advisor to the Baptist Union of Tasmania, a position he held for most of his life. Later he became a foundation member of the Newstead Baptist Church. The Launceston City Mission and the British and Foreign Bible Society were among his interests. (37)

William married Harriet Emily Solomon on 18 April 1894. (38) They had nine children. (39) Harriet died on 26 June 1931. (40)

For several years before he died William was an invalid, living at Longford. (41) He died on 5 November 1948, survived by two sons, Maurice and Edwin, and four daughters, Kate Weston, Mrs Frances Pryde, Mrs Helen Cohen, and Mrs Jessie Campbell. (42)

A small number of items relating to H T A Murray, chiefly correspondence to Murray at Circular Head from W G Gibson at Emu Bay, is also included in the records.

The collection was donated to the Queen Victoria Museum and Art Gallery in 1948.
