INTRODUCTION

Stanley James (known as Jack) Kinnane, was born in Sydney on 7 May 1912, the son of Alfred James and Adeline Kinnane. (NSW Federation Index 1889-1918; death notice Examiner 17 January 2002) About 1915 the family came to Tasmania, where Jack attended the Smithton, Wynyard and Burnie state schools.

Jack began his cycling career on Christmas Day 1928 when he easily won a half mile race from scratch on the beach at Currie Heads (in the vicinity of Beechford) after riding the 35 miles from Launceston. During his subsequent highly successful career he won most of the major road classics in Tasmania and competed in mainland events. When he retired in 1955 he still held the Tasmanian 25 and 200 mile records, the Tasmanian 12-hour event and the title for the Launceston to Burnie and return race. Some of the records he established still stand because with metric distances now applying to cycling, they are likely to remain unchallenged.

As a professional cyclist Jack was equally at home on the track or road. He worked and rode for Charlie Hay of Torpedo Cycles and Ron Scott of Scott's Cycles in Launceston before founding Kinnane Cycle Works at 187 Wellington Street, Launceston, in 1939. He sold the business in 1974. His famous Kinnane bicycle sold in all Australian states, New Zealand and Africa.

Jack contributed a great deal to his sport. From 1946 he played a major role in rejuvenating and popularising cycling in Tasmania. He organised a number of races including many memorial road races and his own "Kinnane 65" races. The highlight of his sporting career he considered to be the Mercury tour of Tasmania cycle races and the Launceston six day bike rides he helped organise. He formed the Ramblers Cycling Club, now the City of Launceston Cycling Club. At the age of fifty-four Jack took up golf, becoming a keen member of the Riverside Golf Club. He was secretary of the Tattersall and Sportsmen's Social Golf Club for over twenty-five years.

Life membership of the League of Tasmanian Wheelmen was bestowed on him for his outstanding contribution to cycling in Tasmania in 1987. He was nationally recognised as one of Australia's outstanding senior citizens during the 1999 International Year of the Older Person. The following year he was awarded the West Tamar Council citizen of the year award for more than seventy years of commitment to sporting clubs and organising sporting events, particularly cycling and golf.

Jack Kinnane died at Launceston on 16 January 2002, survived by his son and daughter. His wife, Zoe (nee Donnelly) who he married in 1936, and one son predeceased him. (Examiner 17 January 2002, 19 January 2002, p.6, Examiner 18 April 1936, p.12.)

The collection was donated to the Queen Victoria Museum and Art Gallery in May 2002.
