

ANSWERS

① A. Marsupials first appeared in Tasmania in the Quaternary Age. B. The closest living relative to the Zygomaturus is the Wombat.

② A. The two-headed snake is a white lipped snake with a rare mutation. You can find it on the bottom shelf of the snake cabinet. B. The Albino Wallaby is the furry friend not like the others. C. There are seven tiny snails on display. You can find them on the shelf below the Tasmanian Devil.

③ It took 6 months for the Sydney Cove crew to be rescued.

④ There are six bicycles older than the Alfa Romeo.

www.qvmag.tas.gov.au

① GEOLOGICAL TIMELINE

- A. In which age did marsupials first appear in Tasmania?
-
- B. What is the closest living relative to the Zygomaturus?
-

② ANIMAL EYE SPY TASMANIAN WILDLIFE

- A. Can you find the snake with two heads? Where is it?
-
- B. One of these furry friends is not like the others! Which marsupial stands out from the rest?
-
- C. There are some very tiny land snails that live at the Cataract Gorge. Can you find them on display? How many are there?
-

③ SYDNEY COVE AND BEATTIE COLLECTION

How long did it take for the rescue party to arrive after the Sydney Cove ran aground?

Can you find one carnivore, one herbivore and one omnivore? Read the labels and write down your favourites ones.

.....

.....

.....

⑥ DINOSAURS

④ TRANSPORT

- How many of the bicycles on display were made in the decades after the Alfa Romeo?
-
- If you lived in the early 1900's, which vehicle would you like to use?
-
- Draw yourself travelling to the museum on it!

..... This is a